Buyer activity and sales up, new listings still lag.

Jen Baird CEO, REINZ

The Real Estate Institute of New Zealand's (REINZ) June 2023 figures show a renewed level of activity emerging.

REINZ Chief Executive Jen Baird says June traditionally tends to be a slower month for the property market, however this month we are seeing a rise in sales counts alongside a hesitancy from sellers to list.

Compared to June 2022, this month has shown a notable increase in sales. The total number of properties sold across New Zealand in June 2023 was 5,629, up from 4,912 in June 2022 (+14.6%), year-on-year. New Zealand excluding Auckland sales counts increased by 17.4% year-on-year from 3,203 to 3,761.

At the end of June, the total number of properties for sale across New Zealand was 24,676, down 6.1% (1,595 properties) from 26,271 year-on-year, and down 7.5% month-on-month. New Zealand excluding Auckland was down from 15,820 to 15,655, a decrease of 165 properties annually.

“With sales counts up year-on-year but down slightly month-on-month, the change in direction of the national inventory level is driving ongoing lower levels of new property coming to market and an increase in the number of sales being made,” adds Baird.

Historical data tells us that we typically expect a decrease in sales when moving from May to June across New Zealand. When that seasonal trend is considered, by applying seasonal adjustment to the sales count figures, we see those sales this June exceeded expectations when compared to the sales count in May 2023.

Nationally, new listings decreased by 21.2%, from 7,893 listings to 6,218 year-on-year, and a 15.5% decrease compared to May 2023 from 7,359. New Zealand excluding Auckland listings decreased 19.8% year-on-year from 4,994 to 4,005.

“Salespeople across the country are reporting increased first home buyer activity at open homes, with the easing of LVR restrictions that came into effect on 1 June bringing more people out looking. Although activity has increased, caution remains as interest rates, a pending election and further strain caused by the cost-of-living tempers putting pen on paper,” states Baird.

Nationally, the June 2023 median price decreased 8.2% year-on-year to $780,000 from $850,000. Days to sell have risen to 49 days for June 2023 — up 4 days compared to June 2022 and no change from May 2023. The West Coast and Tasman regions saw an annual increase in median price — up 8.1% to $400,000 and 7.4% to $800,000 respectively.

“In the last three months ending June 2023, 15,934 sales have occurred, a 1.2% increase year-on-year. A lack of listings and the challenge of navigating the current economic climate are putting pressure on the market. Commentators say there are harder times ahead, but sales are still happening, people are still making choices about where and how they live, and these choices necessitate a property transaction,” adds Baird.

The REINZ House Price Index (HPI) for New Zealand, which measures the changing value of residential property nationwide, showed an annual decrease of -9.0% for New Zealand and a -8.0% decrease for New Zealand excluding Auckland.

Median house prices

Our two biggest cities have seen ongoing year-on-year median price declines for the beginning of 2023.

There were no record median prices at the regional level.

West Coast was the only region to have a median price increase year on year.

There were no record median prices at the regional level this month.

There were no Territorial Authority record median prices this month, the first time this has happened in the month of June since 2011.

Three quarters (75%) of all Territorial Authorities have had no median record price in any of the past 12 months.

Sales counts

Historical data tells us that we typically expect a decrease in sales when moving from May to June. When that seasonal trend is taken into account by applying seasonal adjustment to the sales count figures, we see those sales this June exceeded expectations when compared to the sales count in May 2023.

Five regions had increases in sales counts month-on-month from May 2023 to June 2023.

The average number of sales in the past 10 years for the month of June is 6,506.

Days to Sell Month-on-month

Over the last ten years the average of the median days to sell for the month of June is 38 days.

West Coast had the highest median Days to Sell since September 2022

Southland had the lowest median Days to Sell since November 2022

In terms of the month of June, June 2023 had the highest median Days to Sell in:

- Nelson since 1999
- NZ since 2008
- Otago since 2009
- NZ Excl. Auckland, and Wellington since 2011
- Tasman since 2012
- Gisborne, Manawatu-Whanganui and Taranaki since 2014
- Marlborough since 2015.

House Price Index (HPI)

No regional HPI records this month.

Wellington, for the first time in 19 months, is not in the bottom two ranked regions for the YOY HPI movement.

Southland is the top-ranked HPI year-on-year movement this month. Otago is second and Taranaki is third.

Inventory

Six of fifteen regions had at least a 10% YOY increase in inventory.

Seven regions had less inventory than they had one year ago.

Listings

All regions had a decrease in Listings since June 2023 except for Northland, a notable exception with a 19.0% increase in listings.

Eight of fifteen regions have had listings decrease by more than 20% year on year.

Inventory and listing data come from realestate.co.nz.

Inventory and listing data come from realestate.co.nz.

Auctions

Nationally, 9.8% (549) of properties were sold at auction in June 2023, compared to 11.7% (575) in June 2022.

New Zealand excluding Auckland saw 6.6% of properties (250) sell by auction compared to 9.1% (290) the year prior.

NOTE TO EDITORS:

The monthly REINZ residential sales reports remain the most recent, complete and accurate statistics on house prices and sales in New Zealand. They are based on actual sales reported by real estate agents. These sales are taken as of the date that a transaction becomes unconditional, up to 5:00pm on the last business day of the month. Other surveys of the residential property market are based on information from Territorial Authorities regarding settlement and the receipt of documents by the relevant Territorial Authority from a solicitor. As such, this information involves a lag of four to six weeks before the sale is recorded.

Northland

In Northland, median prices decreased by 4.9% year-on-year to $675,000.

“Local salespeople report that first home buyers, owner occupiers, and investors were all active over June, and buyers appear more confident.

Interest rates remain a concern for first-home buyers, and some investors are being cautious ahead of October’s election. In keeping with the last few months, vendors are more aware of market conditions, and some are adjusting their price expectations, while others are holding firm with their original price expectations. Listings for Northland were 19.0% higher compared with the previous year – the only region to see a year-on-year increase.

Economic uncertainty, the cost of living, and fear of paying too much continue to be buyer concerns, although Northland agents are cautiously optimistic that the market may slowly improve in the coming months.”

In Auckland, the median price decreased by 12.5% year-on-year to $1,000,000.

“Local salespeople reported increased sales in South Auckland, particularly with first-home buyers, due to the easing of loan-to-value restrictions. In North Auckland, sales were low, with local agents citing lending criteria, interest rates, ongoing bad weather, and anticipation of the election as contributing factors. North Auckland agents predict that the market will improve once the factors described above stabilise.

Many vendors are preferring to wait in the hope of achieving their price expectations, although some are meeting the market and adjusting their price. Listings were 23.7% lower year-on-year.

Buyers are continuing to look, with attendance at open homes and auctions increasing slightly in central and south Auckland; local agents are seeing signs of slight increases in confidence.”

In the Waikato, median prices eased by 12.2% year-on-year to $737,300.

“There was a notable increase in numbers of first home buyers in Hamilton and investors are starting to make enquiries there again. The most active buyer pool in Thames-Coromandel were owner occupiers and holiday home purchasers, while in Taupo, owner occupiers and first home buyers were the most active.

Open home attendance picked up in Hamilton and Taupo compared with last month, but in the Coromandel, challenges with road access due to Cyclone Gabrielle damage impacted the numbers at open homes. Listings in the Waikato were 23.5% lower.

Local salespeople report signs of improving confidence, with an increase in buyers coming back to the market and showing a renewed appetite for purchasing. Local agents predict that the market will slowly improve, as demand increases.”

The median price in Bay of Plenty decreased by 6.7% year-on-year to $840,000.

“Local salespeople report a steady improvement in sales, with first home buyers and owner occupiers being the most active buyer pools. Open home attendance increased over the month.

Most vendors accept the impacts of interest rates, the economic climate, lending restrictions, and are adjusting their price expectations accordingly. A small number of vendors are continuing to aim for their original price expectations. Listings were lower, with 27.9% fewer listings compared with a year ago.

There’s been a positive shift in market sentiment, and local agents are seeing motivated buyers, and more offers being made. Bay of Plenty salespeople predict that the market will slowly improve.”

Hawke's Bay

Hawke's Bay's median price eased slightly to $680,000, down by 0.7% compared with the previous year.

"First-home buyers were the most active buyer pool and attendance at open homes and auctions increased compared with the previous month.

Most vendors have adjusted their price expectations in light of the impacts of rising interest rates and the economic climate, as well as the ongoing impacts of severe weather events. However, some vendors with high-end homes are opting to wait until their price expectations are met. There were 29.8% fewer listings in June, compared with the previous year."

Taranaki

Median prices in Taranaki decreased by 0.9% year-on-year to $570,000.

“Owner-occupiers continued to be the most active buyers in the region, but there was more activity from first-home buyers compared with the previous month.

Most vendors are realistic about their asking price and are aware that properties are, on average, taking longer to sell.

It continues to be a buyers’ market in Taranaki, but local agents report signs of a shift in market sentiment, as some buyers believe the market has reached its low point. Appraisal activity was noticeably higher in June, although many vendors are not looking to market their home until later in the year, which could lead to a lot of sales activity over summer.”

Manawatu/ Whanganui

Manawatu/Whanganui's median price decreased by 6.6% to $540,000 when compared to June last year.

“Owner-occupiers continue to be the most active group, but local salespeople have noted that more first-home buyers are returning to the market. Open-home attendance increased compared with the previous month.

Year-on-year, there were 14.3% fewer listings in Manawatu/Wanganui.

The market continues to be challenging as buyers are impacted by interest rates and property prices. Local salespeople predict these challenges to continue for some time yet, though there may be some light at the end of the tunnel.”

Median prices in Nelson decreased by 17.2% year-on-year to $650,000.

“In Marlborough and Tasman, median prices fell by 10.4% and 7.5% year-on-year to $645,000 and 800,000 respectively.

All types of buyers were active in the market, with owner-occupiers being the biggest buyer pool. Some vendors have changed their pricing expectations in line with the market, but others continue to hold out in the hopes of achieving their original sales price.

Interest rates and the economic climate continue to be a concern for buyers, and anticipation about the election is also leading to some caution about purchasing. Local agents expect market sentiment to remain the same for the next few months.”

The median price in the West Coast increased by 35.4% to $400,000 when compared to June last year.

“Despite a mixed bag weather-wise, real estate activity on the coast continued to buck nationwide trends, with good numbers of contracts being written across the board. Listings were on par with expectations, dropping by 15.5% year-on-year.

Prices remained strong and there were multiple signs of interest in all parts of the market. Potential buyers in the middle to early retirement bracket – who tend to have fewer financial constraints on their buying potential – are the group showing the most interest.

West Coast salespeople report a boost in confidence due to the Westland Milk Products factory expansion in Hokitika getting underway. The possibility of a new gold boom in Reefton has also generated interest and salespeople hope this will flow through to increased confidence levels.”

Canterbury’s median price eased by 4.4% year-on-year to $655,000.

“Across Timaru and Ashburton, owner occupiers and first home buyers were equally active buyer pools, while in Christchurch, owner occupiers were the leading buyer group.

Interest rates, the cost of living, and the risk of paying too much continue to be concerns for buyers. However, local salespeople report signs of confidence growing. Although listings decreased by 14.1%, open home attendance and private viewings increased, and local salespeople noted increased sales of new townhouses and sections in Christchurch, after being quiet for some time.

The market tends to be slower during winter, and this is compounded by the upcoming election. However local agents predict positive changes in market sentiment in spring.”

Dunedin City

The median price in Dunedin was $585,000, a modest increase on recent months and in line with the general trend of a price plateau.

“First-home buyers were the most active buyer pool, with loan-to-value restrictions having eased, and open-home attendance was strong over the month.

A range of factors such as interest rates, inflation, economic uncertainty, and anticipation of the election continue to impact market sentiment, with some vendors choosing to wait before placing their property on the market. With the dropping stock levels, buyer competition is stronger than it has been for some time.”

REINZ Regional Commentator

Queenstown Lakes

Owner-occupiers and first-home buyers were the most active buyer pools in the Queenstown Lakes District.

“Some vendors are open to reviewing their price expectations if they have urgency. Open-home attendance numbers were in line with this time of year.

Investors are by and large waiting to see if legislation around tenancy rights, expense deductibility, and the Brightline Test, will be altered and if so, when.”

Southland's median price decreased by 5.2% year-on-year to $423,500.

"First-home buyers and investors were the most active, particularly with houses priced at the lower end of the market. Sales were up by 31.1% compared with June the previous year.

Listings decreased 23.3% in Southland. Local salespeople reported a decrease in buyers for houses priced at the middle and high end of the market, as concerns continued over the economic climate and interest rates. Agents predict a quieter market cycle to stick around for a while longer, at least until after October's election."
